Gettysburg Awaits President Sunday

By J. WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—Muffled drums sounded an historic battle cry in the martial air of Gettysburg today—"Veterans' Day" in the 75th anniversary celebration of the "War Between the States", and for the scant 2,000 survivors of the Civil War, gathered here for their final reunion. Uncle Sam's service units formed in parade on review.

Three-quarters of a century ago, shells screamed over Cemetery Hill and powder-smoke befogged the valley as the second day's fighting swung back and forth outside the town.

But today the strongest war reminder was the police bark of saluting cannon, the clump of marching army man and the blare of military bands.

Major General Edward C. Shannon, Pennsylvania's National Guard commander and "Grand Old Man" of the Twenty-Eighth Division, was called to lead 30-odd service and veterans' bands in street parade.

State and federal anniversary commission members hoped for clearing weather after a day of rain that drenched Gettysburg and its hallowed battle ground. Tomorrow they welcome President Roosevelt for his dedication of the new "Eter-

Barbara And Estranged Husband Stay In London

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 2.—Separated by only two miles of London rooftops, but refraining from all communication, the former Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, and her estranged husband, Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, planned today to spend the week-end in the British capital.

But the American-born countess, who some months ago renounced her United States citizenship, did not look forward to a gay observance of July holidays.

Instead, like her grim-faced husband, she was expected to continue consultations with her legal advisers regarding final details of strategy to be used in Tuesday's court hearing of the charges she has made against the count.

In yesterday's hearing in the drab Bow street police court, the count denied charges that he had threatened his wife with bodily injury. He was released in $10,000 bail bond after promising he would not carry a revolver or attempt to see his wife or their two-year-old son, Lance, during the period of his remand.

The countess is now expected to attend the next hearing on Tuesday. She has been warned to hold herself ready to testify should her oral evidence in the controversy be found necessary.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Just as it was getting dark last evening lots of "lightning bugs" were flying around in the back yards on the East side. Some folks say this is a sign of warmer weather ahead.

If you are planning any picnics or trip to the cottage over the Fourth of July holiday, it would be best to include an umbrella in the equipment. The weatherman today says cloudy, probably showers tonight and Sunday, with thundershowers on the calendar for Monday the Fourth. Nice going Mr. Weatherman.

Saw several W. P. A. trucks this morning transporting the camping equipment of Troop K out along East Washington street to their new armory. Some of the boys were sitting up on the trucks, looking hale and hearty, waving to their friends, glad to be back again from camp to "the old home town".

When the stone fence around the public square is completed, there will need to be some resurfacing of the paving in the square to make the locality show up at its best. The patched paving in some sections of the square is anything but attractive.

Wool Pool Is Sold By County Wool Growers

Top Price Of 24.41 Cents Per Pound Is Secured For Best Grades

WILL BE POOLED DURING MONTH

Lawrence County wool growers, members of the local association, which is one of the largest in the state of Pennsylvania, disposed of the 1938 wool crop at a price of 24.41 cents per pound for the one-half, three-eights and quarter blood wool to Patterson and Company, of Boston, Mass., at a meeting of the association officers in the rooms of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association in the Post Office Friday evening, W. S. McCracken, secretary of the association stated this morning.

While the price is approximately 16 cents per pound less than was received last year, it was exceptionally good compared to sales of other pools made previously this year.

The price was fine Delaine was 23.51 cents, with a lesser price for the poorer quality of wools.

It is planned to pool the wool and ship it on July 12, 13 and 14, the Butler county members shipping from Butler on July 12, while those from Lawrence and Beaver counties will ship from New Castle on the 13th and 14th.

Further details of the shipping arrangements will be announced later, Mr. McCracken stated today.

President To Start Western Trip On July 7

Four Major Speeches And Numerous Minor Addresses Scheduled

POLITICAL ASPECT OF TRIP IS SEEN

Fishing Expedition In Pacific To Follow Arrival On West Coast

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 2.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained Swedish Crown Princess Louise and members of her entourage at a picnic luncheon today while Democratic aspirants to nomination for public office pondered the full import of his 1938 transcontinental schedule, as made public here.

Four Major Speeches.

Four major speeches and at least ten personal appearances have been set definitely for the cross-country trip upon which the president starts next Thursday. Political fortunes of Democratic candidates for senator, governor and the house of representatives along the Roosevelt route are potentially affected, and observers waited to see whether the reputed New Deal "purge" was to become a large-scale actuality.

It was regarded certain that the president would say a good word for at least four senators who rendered loyal service during the session of congress just closed—Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and William G. McAdoo of California.

How many more may get a pat on the back—or inversely an inferential gesture of disapproval—was a matter of conjecture which was boiling the political pot from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast.

(International News Service)

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border, July 2.—After capturing Bechi on their drive to Valencia, Spanish Insurgent troops today crossed the river Seco and occupied several government positions northwest of Ermita De San Antonio, a Slamanca communique announced today.

Heavy government casualties were reported as the Insurgents pressed forward relentlessly in the Onda sector, capturing several hills and villages there, it was claimed. Artes Taies was among the occupied towns.

Bechi, one of the most important centers on the Insurgents' route toward Valencia, is situated about 10 miles south of Castellon De La Plana.

U.S. Prepares To Make Protest

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The United States today prepared a protest to Japan over the aerial bombing of American property and the wounding of an American Catholic priest at Swatow, China.

American Consul Whitney Young informed the state department that Father William J. Downs of Meadville, Pa., had been wounded when a Japanese aerial bomb demolished his residence. The Catholic priest was not believed seriously injured.

It was not believed the situation would call for a formal note from Washington but at the state department it was said that the American consul at Swatow and the American ambassador at Tokyo were under standing instructions to bring such matters to the attention of the Japanese government.

No other Americans have been reported injured in dispatches to the state department.

Judge Schaeffer Delays Decision On State Probe

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 2.—New evidence from both District Attorney Carl B. Shelley and Attorney General Guy K. Bard has caused Judge Paul N. Schaeffer to postpone his final decision on the proposed grand jury investigation into the Earle administration until next week, it was revealed today.

What the nature of the new evidence was the Berks county jurist refused to reveal except to remark: "I heard things that I had never heard before."

"I want to discuss certain things more fully with the district attorney Tuesday and I told the attorney general I might call on him for another conference next week."

In any event, his decision will not be ready before next Wednesday, at the earliest, Judge Schaeffer said.

He added that he was preparing his opinion with the greatest of care. It will be, he said, "possibly the most important step" of the entire procedure." I think any sane man in the position of a judge would hesitate in making this decision," he commented.

Following conferences with both Shelley and Bard, Judge Schaeffer left for his home in Reading where he will spend the holiday week end, returning to Harrisburg Tuesday.

SHANGHAI, July 2.—Heavy Chinese reinforcements rushed to the Matang area of the Yangtze river valley today to attempt to halt the relentless Japanese advance against Hankow.

Bitter fighting was reported in progress, and the Japanese claimed they dominated all the Matang fortifications surrounding the southern end of the boom which had been thrown across the river to impede their warships.

Previously, it was reported that the Nipponese forces had penetrated the boom at Matang, and that retreating Chinese troops had constructed another one a few miles up the river.

Warns Against Dread Lockjaw From Fireworks

Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, Secretary Of Health, Asks Parents To Guard Children

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2—Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, secretary of health, today urged parents to guard their children carefully against firework accidents July 4 and the danger of lockjaw.

In the event of a fireworks accident during the Fourth of July week-end, a doctor's aid an injection of anti-tetanus or lockjaw serum should be obtained immediately, she advised.

"Tetanus of lockjaw as it is commonly called, is a very dangerous disease," warned Dr. MacBride-Dexter, "and most frequently fatal. Therefore I urge that medical attention be sought without loss of time regardless of how inconsequential the powder injury may seem.

"A minor burn, or a slight abrasion, perhaps from one of the pebbles in a torpedo, may be ignored only to develop later in the dreaded lockjaw.

"Children would be safest without fireworks but if they should be where they are being fired, warn them of the dangers and urge that they promptly tell you of any accident they may suffer from the explosives."

Aviation Passes New Milestone

Army Bomber Makes Transcontinental Hop Through Sub-Stratosphere

CREW OF EIGHT ON OXYGEN ENTIRELY

(International News Service)

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., July 2.—Aviation passed another milestone today as one of the army's great bombers completed a transcontinental hop through the sub-stratosphere with its crew of eight "on oxygen" for the entire journey.

The four-engined bomber, commanded by Col. Robert Olds who last year headed the army's goodwill flight to South America, flew from March field, Calif., to Langley in 11 hours and 20 minutes. The ship roared eastward at an altitude ranging between 13,000 and 16,000 feet and averaged the 2,317-mile journey at a speed of 204 miles per hour.

Although Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson characterized the trip as "routine" commercial airline officials considered the feat an important forward step in aviation. Leading airlines eventually hope to utilize the sub-stratosphere levels for long-distance operations and have been experimenting with various types of equipment during the past two years.

Fear For Safety Of Maxim Litinov

Report New Purge Has Been Launched In Russia By Stalin

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 2.—Fears for the safety of foreign commissar Maxim Litvinov and his British-born wife were linked today with widespread reports that Russian dictator Joseph Stalin has launched a new and sensational purge.

Scores of important officials of the Red Army's far eastern command have been arrested, and all Soviet border guard commanders have been replaced, the Berlin Angriff reported from Moscow.

The far eastern purge was said to be the direct result of the flight of G. S. Lushkov, former secret police official, into Japanese-controlled Manchukuo following the alleged discovery of a plot against the life of Stalin. In Moscow, however, it was denied that Lushkov had fled.

Two London newspapers today told of anxiety over the safety of Litvinov, one of Europe's most astute diplomatists, and his brilliant wife. One rumor, according to the Daily Sketch, was that Litvinov had been arrested and that a score of other famous Russians had been "trapped" with him.

Hollywood Police Apparently Balked In Death Of Gray

Letter From New Castle Girl Fails To Reveal Anything Of Clue

SCOUT THEORY GRAY SUICIDE

Mrs. Gray Can Shed No Light On Mysterious Death Of Her Husband

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—Police were seemingly balked today in their efforts to solve the mysterious death of King D. Gray, middle-aged motion picture cameraman.

From a girl in New Castle, Pa., they gained but little information instead of finding some clew which might lead them to solve what they believed was a murder.

The girl was Frances Bleakley, 28, a former University of Southern California student, who had written a letter to Gray asking him to do her a favor.

Letter Found On Gray

The letter found on Gray's person when police discovered him sitting grotesquely in his automobile, parked in front of the Hollywood postoffice, a bullet through his chest.

Pennsylvania police questioned the girl at the request of local officers on the theory Gray might have been slain because of his friendship with the girl, a former resident of Hollywood, who had signed the letter "with love always, Babe" and sent it to his private box in the post office here.

But the most they could ascertain was that she wanted him to check on a trunk she had left in Hollywood.

Left Several Weeks Ago

Miss Bleakley was employed in the art department of a Hollywood store until several weeks ago, when she left to visit her mother in New Castle. Police said they understood that Gray and the girl were merely good friends, although they admitted that Gray's widow, Mrs. Myrtle Gray, told them that she and Gray had quarreled recently over a letter he had received "from a girl in the East."

Mrs. Gray could shed no light on the death of her husband, one of the film industry's ace cameramen.

She said her husband had no enemies she knew of, and was not morose or depressed when she saw him last, about 9:30 p. m. on the eve of his death.

Scout Suicide Theory

The theory that Gray may have committed suicide was scouted when

NEW CASTLE GIRL WAS 'CASUAL' FRIEND

Vigorously denying any knowledge of circumstances which might surround the death of King Gray, Hollywood cameraman, and insisting that her friendship with the slain man was merely a "casual" one, Miss Frances I. Bleakley, of 312 Boyles avenue, was interviewed Friday afternoon by Police Chief Ralph Criswell.

Chief of Police Ralph Criswell, with Officer George S. Kennedy, interviewed Miss Bleakley at the request of the Hollywood police department. Their purpose was merely to ascertain if Miss Bleakley had any information which would aid the police in solving the mystery.

Miss Bleakley is the New Castle girl whose letter was found in the dead man's pocket. In the letter she addressed King, a 53-year-old man, as "Daddy" and signed herself "Babe," it is related.

"Friend Of Family"

"Mr. Gray was a friend of the entire family," said Mrs. Bleakley. "We met him through my son, Dr. Samuel Bleakley, who has offices in Los Angeles. Frances had known him for some time and he always appeared to be a gentleman."

"The term 'Daddy' was merely a nickname for him," Miss Bleakley explained. "I met him some time ago in Los Angeles. I knew he was married, but I never met Mrs. Gray."

'Love My Man' Asserts Bride

Report Mother Gave Consent For Marriage Of Girl To 27-Year Old Man

AUTHORITIES NOT DECIDED ON ACTION

SYLVA, N. C., July 2—"They ain't nobody gonna part us." That was the challenge today of Will Webb lanky 27 year old unschooled mountaineer, speaking of his marriage last Sunday to 12-year old Evabelle Patterson, just revealed.

"I love my man and I aim to stay married," said the child-bride.

Consented To Marriage

Freenie, mother, Lizzie Patterson, a widow and mother of one other child, a seven year old boy, said Webb was going to marry her daughter anyway so she consented to the marriage.

They might as well live together if they love each other," the mother decided.

County officials said today they were undecided what steps they would take against the couple.

The newlyweds live in a cabin on the Cullowee mountains, nine miles from Sylva. Webb works on a timber cruiser, and earns $5 a week. He has a small farm near his cabin.

sunk in the past 48 hours in the Yangtze river, chiefly through aerial attacks.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported throwing the entire Chinese air force into the fray to prevent the Japanese from launching their battle fleet up the river toward Hankow from Ma ang.

The latest claim was that the Chinese warplanes sank a troop-laden Japanese transport near Lu-Ho.

Meanwhile, renewal of intensive and continued aerial attacks on Southern China by Nipponese planes was anticipated following yesterday's devastating assault on the Kwangtung Province Port of Swatow.

School Children Victims

Latest advices from the stricken city said casualties numbered at least 400, with more than 100 of these killed. Two hundred school children, pupils of a municipal school which was demolished by bombs, were numbered among the dead and wounded.

Some estimates placed the casualties as high as 1,000, but this was regarded as an exaggeration. Swatow hospitals were crowded with the dead and dying, however.

Advices from Peiping said Japanese forces in the north defeated the communist Chinese 308th route army at Jungcheng, 60 miles south of Peiping and just east of the Kinhan railway, killing 57 Chinese and capturing huge quantities of communist, anti-Japanese literature.

The battle proved that China's militant communist military leader, General Chuch, has extended his power close to Peiping, since 15 of his personal agents were discovered recruiting followers in Jung-Cheng.

The city where the battle occurred is only 30 miles from Paoting, a Large American mission center.

TROOP RETURNS THIS MORNING; IN NEW ARMORY

stables, were made ready for occupancy and were moved into by the troop on its return.

Space for 44 mounts is provided in the deluxe stables. The corral in the back has been fenced in while the troop was away. The showers were in working order and the men treated themselves to a refreshing bath as soon as they could get the work cleaned up and peel off.

Few Casualties

The horses and men wanted to turn west on Washington street as they left the station, force of habit being too much for them, but they were finally headed east and went to their new home. Stable Sergeant Measel expects to find some of the mounts back at the old stamping grounds at Scotland lane if they get loose.

The troop stood the tour of duty at camp in good shape, and there were mighty few casualties this year. Robert F. Mathay developed an infection of the right arm and still carries it in a sling, while George W. Taylor managed to receive two broken fingers of the right hand while engaged in a little horseplay at camp, but outside that, all the men are in good physical condition, and brown as a nut.

Five mounts were lost while the troop was away. Four were destroyed yesterday before the troop left camp and one died while at camp, leaving 24 mounts on hand. It is likely that they will be replaced in the near future.

The new armory is a splendid structure and the men are highly pleased at being able to occupy it. It was used for storage for two weeks before going to camp, the old armory building on West Washington street having been given up on June 1.

It is built of white stone, of unusually substantial construction, with polished oak doors. There is a large locker room, shower room and mess hall in the front of the building, in addition to the heating plant, supply room, orderly room and other living rooms.

Captain Praises Men

The stables are built in the rear, with large stalls holding two horses, arranged in two rows across the building. Above is the hay-mow, with plenty of additional storage space.

In between is the riding and drill room, an immense space. It is under roof, but will have to be cleaned up. The floor will be covered with sawdust and sand.

Once the debris is cleared away from the outside and the area is landscaped it will be an imposing looking structure.

Capt. George F. Seyffert stated that the troop members acquitted themselves in the usual manner for which troop K has become noted, and they held up their honors gained in past years in fine fashion.

By noon the work of unloading and storing away the equipment had been completed and the boys were all back home. A large delegation of friends, relatives and sweethearts was on hand to greet the boys when they got off the train, and there were many happy reunions.

his journey to California might have a political aspect. He devoted his last day at Hyde Park for some weeks to entertaining the Swedish royal party and to putting the finishing touches on the speech he will deliver tomorrow afternoon at Gettysburg, Pa.

The president is leaving his family estate here early tomorrow morning by special train for the site of the famous Civil war battle, 75th anniversary of which is being observed by the few remaining members of the Union and Confederate armies of the '60s.

From Gettysburg, the executive will continue on to Washington, there to put in four days of desk work before heading west.

Leaves On July 7.

As okayed by Mr. Roosevelt, the western schedule will take him out of Washington on the night of July 7. The following morning, July 8, he will speak at Marietta, O., in connection with the 150th anniversary celebration of the opening of the northwest territory.

Senator Bulkley is being opposed for renomination by former Governor George White—who incidentally was Democratic national chairman in 1920 when Mr. Roosevelt unsuccessfully ran on the little end of the ticket with James M. Cox.

On the afternoon of July 8, the president will speak at the Latonia race track outside of Covington, Ky., and later make rear-platform appearances at Louisville and Bowling Green. Mr. Roosevelt has publicly endorsed Senator Barkley in his renomination campaign against Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

In Oklahoma July 9.

July 9, running on a fast schedule, the executive will be in Oklahoma City, Okla., to speak at the fair grounds. Senator Elmer Thomas in this state is being opposed by Governor E. W. Marland and Rep. Gomer Smith for the Democratic nomination.

Late that night, the presidential special pulls into Fort Worth, Texas, where the president will remain at the home of his second son, Elliot, until the morning of July 11, heading westward again, he will pause for an hour and a half at Amarillo, Texas.

The morning of July 12 will put him into Pueblo, Colo., for a rear platform appearance. Senator Alva Adams is up for re-election there, and observers were speculating on what attitude, if any, the president might take in that connection.

Then shooting across Utah and Nevada, with no public appearances so far arranged, the president will reach Crockett, Cal., on July 14, motor around San Pablo bay, stop at the Angolisland navy yard and then swing across the Golden Gate bridge from San Francisco to Sausalito.

To Review Fleet.

In mid-afternoon of the 14th, the chief executive will review the combined fleet in San Francisco bay from the U. S. S. Houston.

Leaving Oakland late that night, he will journey to El Portal, gateway to Yosemite park, and spend the day of July 15 inspecting its scenic wonders.

Again aboard the train, the president will reach Los Angeles on July 16, disentrain and motor south to San Diego.

Throughout California, Mr. Roosevelt's presence will be regarded as a gesture for Senator McAdoo, whether the president will allow himself to become involved in the hectic five-man race for the gubernatorial nomination remained to be seen. J. F. T. O'Connor, who was Comptroller of the currency under the president, is one of the aspirants.

Fishing Cruise.

At San Diego, on the afternoon of July 16, Mr. Roosevelt will board the cruiser Houston for a fishing cruise down the western coast of America.

About two weeks later he will return to Panama, spend the night with President Arosemena and proceed through the canal back to the eastern seaboard.

On the way north at the conclusion of his cruise, the president was expected to stop off in Georgia, where Senator Walter F. George, New Deal opponent on some major issues, is up for re-election, and in South Carolina, where Senator Ed "Cotton Ed" Smith, also an opponent on crucial occasions, is seeking a return to Washington.

police chemists reported that a microscopic examination of Gray's clothing showed no traces of powder and that the gun which snuffed out his life must have been fired from a distance of at least a foot.

The empty shell, from a .32 caliber automatic pistol, was found inside the car, but no trace of the death weapon could be found.

Although Gray's friends asserted he did not drink, police announced they had found a bottle of wine, partly emptied, in Gray's car, which lead them to believe he may have had others in the car with him during the evening.

Brother Tells Of Visits

Miss Bleakley's brother, Dr. S. N. Bleakley, a dentist here, declared that Gray and his sister had been friends for several months.

"My sister often brought Gray to our home here, but neither ever spoke of his being married," Dr. Bleakley said.

"Frances often spent weekends at our home, and when she did Gray was a frequent visitor and dinner guest. My wife and I judged they were very friendly and they always seemed very fond of each other.

"Frances never said anything about marrying Gray, and whether or not she had any plans of that nature, I could not say. I am not sure that she knew he was married, but she did mention once that she did not think he was."

Robbery Possible?

Although detectives at first abandoned robbery as a motive for the "murder in Hollywood," they later theorized that the shot could have been fired by a holdup man who fled without stopping to rob Gray. His money and a valuable diamond ring were found on him.

Jerry Ash, a camera man and friend of Gray's, told police that he and two other men had dinner with Gray at the Universal Studio Cafe Wednesday night and that Gray, when he left them about 9 o'clock appeared "unusually cheerful."

Hunt Mystery Woman

Hollywood, July 2.—The bizarre "murder in Hollywood" took a new turn today when police suddenly began a hunt for a presumed mysterious woman companion of King D. Gray during the "lost hours" just before he was killed.

Entrance of the unnamed woman into the baffling case came after detectives said they learned the film cameraman posed as a single man when he dated the girl who wrote the "Dear Daddy" letter he was reading at the time he was shot.

The letter from Frances Bleakley, former University of Southern California co-ed, was found beneath the body of Gray, married and father of two children.

Gray had just taken the letter from a secret box at the Hollywood post office in front of which his bullet-pierced body was found sitting upright in his auto Thursday, and today detectives speculated that a jealously-crazed woman may have shot him as he read the affectionate letter from Miss Bleakley, now in New Castle, Pa.

Hollywood Captain of Detectives J. J. Jones said there were the circumstances of the "murder in Hollywood" which indicated an unidentified woman was present when the shot was fired and that jealousy was the motive:

Statement by a post office official that only a few hours before the murder he had ordered a "petting couple" to leave the post office driveway, where they sat in an auto similar to the one in which the body of the cameraman was found.

Presence of a bottle of "lady's wine," partially consumed, in the death auto, although the cameraman was not known as a "drinking man."

The fact that the death weapon was a small .32 calibre revolver—still unfound—such as a woman might use.

Reports that a fashionably dressed woman was seen leaving the post office vicinity at about 2 a. m. Thursday—the time police presume Gray was murdered, although his body was not discovered until late afternoon. At first it was supposed he was "sleeping" in the auto passed by hundreds of persons in movie town.

LETTER ASKED ABOUT TRUNK

He came to the house now and then and occasionally I went out with him."

"The letter I wrote him concerned chiefly my trunk. When I left Los Angeles a month ago I left my trunk there and asked Mr. Gray to return it east for me."

Miss Bleakley went to Los Angeles in 1929. She was a junior in Westminster College at the time and the year book for the class of 1930 lists her as being active in interclass basketball, glee club and oratorio. She did not return to Westminster for her senior year, but went to Los Angeles, where she entered the University of Southern California from which she graduated.

Later she entered the employ of an art store in Los Angeles, but resigned this spring and came back to New Castle to the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William Bleakley.

Asked whether she knew anything of Gray's enemies, Miss Bleakley said she knew nothing. "If I had any information that would be of value to the police I would turn it over," said she.

Teidt-Cheers Wedding

Mrs. Elda Teidt, of St. Charles, Mich., announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary, to James B. Cheers, son of Mrs. Anna Cheers, of the New Castle-New Wilmington road.

The couple was married at Saginaw, Mich., on Saturday, June 25.

P. E. O. SISTERHOOD CONVOCATION HOSTS

Mrs. Chellie Stevens Wright, and Mrs. Carrie B. Simpson will be distinguished guests of the local chapter A. P. E. O. Sisterhood, for the Convocation to be held in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 5 and 6, for the purpose of forming a state organization on the nine chapters in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Wright, from Denver, Colorado, is president of the Supreme Chapter, and Mrs. Simpson, from Grand Forks, North Dakota, is organizer of the Supreme Chapter. Both will be guest speakers at the convention, and will assist the delegates in forming the state organization.

The local chapter has been awarded the honor of being hosts at the Convocation because of its seniority. For many years the P. E. O. Sisterhood was known only in the Middle West, and in 1902 the first Pennsylvania chapter was organized at New Castle, and was known as Chapter A. It is therefore fitting that the plans for the state organization should be drawn up in this city.

The schedule of events for Tuesday begins with registration of delegates at the Hotel Castleton, in the morning. At 10 o'clock a short business meeting will be held in the parlor of the First Presbyterian church, followed by luncheon at a down-town tea-room. A second business session will occupy the afternoon. At 7 o'clock a banquet, open to guests of the delegates, will be served at the Castleton Hotel, with Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Simpson as guest speakers.

At a special meeting of Chapter A, Friday night, in the Englewood avenue home of Mrs. J. A. McNeill, president, final plans were laid for the convocation and committee reports were received. Practice group singing was led by Mrs. Rankin Johnston, followed by an informal social period. Later, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Olivia Griffiths and Alisan Leslie.

Ne-Ca-Ods Club

Ne-Ca-Ods club members met in the home of Jean Llewellyn, Liberty street, on a recent evening for their "kid" party. The entire evening was spent in playing "kid" games, followed by a short business session. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Isaac Llewellyn, in serving lunch.

Miss Genevieve Wilk, Liberty St., will entertain the group at their next meeting, the date to be announced.

On Sunday, June 26, the group held their annual picnic at Stoughton's Beach. The afternoon was spent in swimming and dancing. Supper was served in the grove at a later hour and the remainder of the evening was spent in roller skating.

Alois Hudak of Youngstown, was an out of town guest.

O. G. Card Club Meets

Mrs. Ralph McConnell was hostess to O. G. Card club associates Thursday evening, in her home on McClelland avenue when they gathered for their fortnightly social session.

Cards claimed attention during the evening, with awards for high score going to Mrs. Charles Brickner and others. At a late hour the hostess served a tempting lunch.

In two weeks the group will gather at the home of Mrs. Lester Cox, on the Pulaski road.

Grand Army Ladies

Ladies of the Grand Army, George McCracken Circle No. 168 will meet on Tuesday in the Modern Woodmen Hall for an all day quilting. A business session will be conducted at two o'clock.

The group decided to have a wiener roast at Cascade Park in the near future.

On July 8, Miss Evelyn Davis, Wallace avenue, will entertain the group.

A special guest at last evening's meeting was Miss Toni Veach.

Butler Girls Club

Butler Girls club members entertained their husbands as special guests at a six o'clock dinner Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haywood, of Butler. Cut flowers were used in decorating and a color scheme of pink and white was carried out. Places were laid for 22 and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Allan Cartwright in serving.

The evening was spent in playing games, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, Mrs. Allan Cartwright, Ed Book and Allan Cartwright.

Rev. Paul W. Chapin, pastor of the Oak Grove United Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony at the church manse.

The bride was attired in a lovely white suit with white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of tea roses.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner for the immediate families was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Gibson had as her aides, her daughter Mildred and daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Gibson.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Princeton high school. Mr. Gallagher is affiliated with the C. E. Gleeckman Trucking Company.

The latter two will be leaving for the coast within a few weeks.

Others honored were Mrs. Jay Y. Patton, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. Kathryn McConahy, Miss Elizabeth McConahy, Mrs. Archie Allen and grandson, Junior, and Mrs. Paul Stunkard and children, Billy and Eileen.

After partaking of a delicious menu, the time was spent informally. Mrs. Moser was aided by Mrs. Paul Stunkard.

THE NATIONAL BIRTHDAY

A VISITOR from a foreign shore might assume, from some phases of America's noisy celebration on July 4, that the country lightly regards the blessings of liberty exemplified in constitutional society. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Appreciation of independence as it is enjoyed in the United States and of the principles it has permitted to be embodied in law, is nurtured in childhood, nurtured in youth and ripened in the minds and hearts of the adult population.

Americans are grateful to the founding fathers for their skill and courage in shaping the destinies of this land and for the wisdom with which they charted the course that has been safely followed in over a century and a half of development. They are jealous of every move, from any source, which they believe would jeopardize faithful obedience to the original sailing orders. To them Independence Day connotes not merely the act of which it is the anniversary, but the formula on which years later a new kind of government was set up in a new world.

Monday will be celebrated with explosive energy and outward devotion to sport, but its deep inner significance is safe so long as fidelity to American principles abides, quiescent but ready to spring into action at the slightest challenge, 365 days in the year. Uncle Sam makes merry on his birthday, but takes his duties of wardship over a priceless heritage none the less seriously on that account.

FINAL APPEAL FOR THE FOURTH

"A bang-up Fourth without a bang-up!"

That appeal to the nation was issued today by the National Safety Council in its campaign to reduce the huge annual toll of accidents over the Fourth of July holiday.

Emphasizing the fact that the annual July accident toll is greater than in any other month of the year and that a large part of this toll is due to the Independence Day holiday, the Council asked every citizen to use greater care in driving, swimming, boating and other holiday activities, and not to use explosives or fireworks.

The Council suggested six general rules to avert holiday tragedy:

1. Start early on your holiday trip. Give yourself plenty of time to get there and back by driving moderately. Sixty-one per cent of fatal traffic accidents occur after dark.
2. Watch out for sunburn! It creeps up on you and can be dangerous. A little of it at a time is the best way.
3. Use common sense in the water. Wait an hour after eating. Be sure of the depth. Know that a lifeguard is handy.
4. Don't use fireworks!
5. Don't drive if you drink.
6. Take it easy. Get back safe and sound. Be alive on the Fifth!

AMERICANS NOT THRIFTLESS

American tourists who go to Europe and spend money on what seems to Europeans to be a lavish scale may create in foreign minds the idea that the whole American people are just that way—spendthrifts who don't know how to save a dollar.

That impression, however fostered, is all wrong. Simple figures in one field disprove charges that Americans have no idea of saving for the proverbial rainy day.

It is one of the facts known to all informed business students that Americans hold life insurance policies totaling 120 billion dollars. But a fact that is of even more interest is this vast total is made up by millions of small units. Rich men's policies, running into hundreds of thousands each, form only a drop in the bucket of the grand total. Small policies ranging from one to ten thousand dollars make up the vast majority of life insurance now in force. This does not speak of a prodigal nation—rather of one which has a thought for the future of individuals and their dependents.

TIRED OF IT

There seldom was doubt where Bertrand H. Snell stood on any proposition. The leader of the House Republicans for the last eight years was too forthright a person for that. After 24 years as representative, and that he was truly of the 31st New York District, he has had enough of it and will quit. But right up to the adjournment June 17 of the 75th Congress he took the stand it should remain in session to free business from what he considered shackling restrictions. He had no faith in spending the country's way out of a morass.

Had the Republicans won in 1930, Mr. Snell would have succeeded the late Nicholas Longworth as Speaker. But that election made possible the Speakership and subsequent career of John Nance Garner, and it was Mr. Snell's fate to lead a constantly dwindling minority. Irony had it that this suave parliamentarian should preside over the last two national conventions of his party, which nominated Hoover, for the second time, and Landon for the greatest defeats in the party's history.

Snell was never more courageous than in defeat, but perhaps it was borne in upon him that there was not much fun in leading a party group so numerically ineffectual. That plainly enough was the view of Senator McNary, the party leader in the other chamber, who surrendered all but nominal leadership when outnumbered more than 4 to 1 in the last session, to Mr. Vandenberg of Michigan. Yet they were looked upon as symbols of the party today and of its hope for the future.

A true conservative, Mr. Snell is at all events entitled to survey his long career as compounded of dignity, steadfastness and capability.

The constant complainer gets his share of sympathy. The helpings are just smaller because they come oftener.

Nations have inferiority complexes, too. You can recognize one by the nation's spiteful attitude when it gets the upper hand.

Science has developed a glass said to be as elastic as rubber. It will be advisable to remove the goldfish before playing basket ball with the bowl.

Presumably, if Jackie Cooper's reputation from [illegible] goes into the movies it will be as the sinister-looking chap with the little black mustache and big cigar who is about to foreclose the mortgage on the homestead.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DICTATOR SON OF SIX

"Dear Dr. Myers: Our adopted six year old boy is very headstrong. We have had so many scenes with him, which wear us out, that we find it easier to let things slip by and let him have his own way, rather than make him do as we want him to do. He hollers at us and talks back and goes into a tantrum rage. We have spanked him, but it hurts us more than it seems to hurt him. If we are riding and he wants to go to a certain place or if we are out visiting and he wants to go home, and we don't care to, he makes such a scene, and fuss that we simply have to do as he wants. This is only one occasion. We are having them all the time."

This is one of the most vivid accounts of a common problem I have ever read. My answer to this mother in part:

One simple rule, if you can follow it to the letter, will by-and-by help solve your problem: Never do a thing which your child, by his anger tries to force you to do. You will find this rule very hard to follow. I suppose few parents observe it wholly. Put yourself into that child's place. Wouldn't you do just as he does? He has learned that when you do not let him have his way, he can, by effecting a scene, force you to his bidding. Should you continue so to obey him you will have a sorry time of it later.

Work On Yourselves

According to your account, your main problem is not to work on the child, but on yourselves. Try never to talk back or yell at him. Think through ways of reducing commands therefore punishments. Clearly draw the line between the things he is not to do and the things he is to do. Except for a few routine matters, do not try to get him to do things by force, do not even command him, request, instead, and set the stage so he will choose to co-operate; then heartily approve him when he does. But when you say "No" or "Don't", be very sure you should say it, know you have some force of character, have a spine. Be ashamed to be a jellyfish. If "No" or "Don't" means that he shall cease doing something and he doesn't cease promptly, immediate effective punishment should follow. By this time you should be able to find effective substitutes for physical pain, such as isolation or assignment to sit doing nothing in a certain place where he can be seen to be discouraged from further mischief, for half an hour or so.

I do wish I might persuade parents to teach the child the meaning of NO about as soon as he begins to toddle and have this matter settled permanently.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK — National Commander Daniel Doherty, answering Prof. William Gellermann's attack on the American Legion:

"To be utterly charitable, the highest evaluation that can be placed on his literary effort is to say that it represents the puny product of a small mind, a mind that has failed to respond to the impetus that would naturally come from enlarged educational opportunities."

HOLLYWOOD — Singer Dick Powell, whose actress wife, Joan Blondell, presented him with a baby girl:

"I haven't a word to say or a note to sing, but isn't it great?"

NEW YORK — Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States:

"We hope New York, instead of Moscow, will be the center of the Communist International some day."

VANCOUVER—Former President Herbert Hoover:

"There are only two avenues of privacy left in these days when it is harder and harder to get away from telephones and people. They are prayer and fishing. I strongly recommend both."

FISHING

Let's go fishing! Let's get out
Where success is summed in trout.

Let's get out of here and go
Where the fragrant breezes blow.

And a boy with pole and string
Is the equal of a king;

Where the emphasis is laid
On the sportsmanship displayed;

Where the richest man is he,
Whosoever he may be,

Coming home at night to boast
Of the largest fish or most.

Where the cleverest fellow may
Let the big ones get away.

Let's go fishing! Out where wealth
Can be told in terms of health,

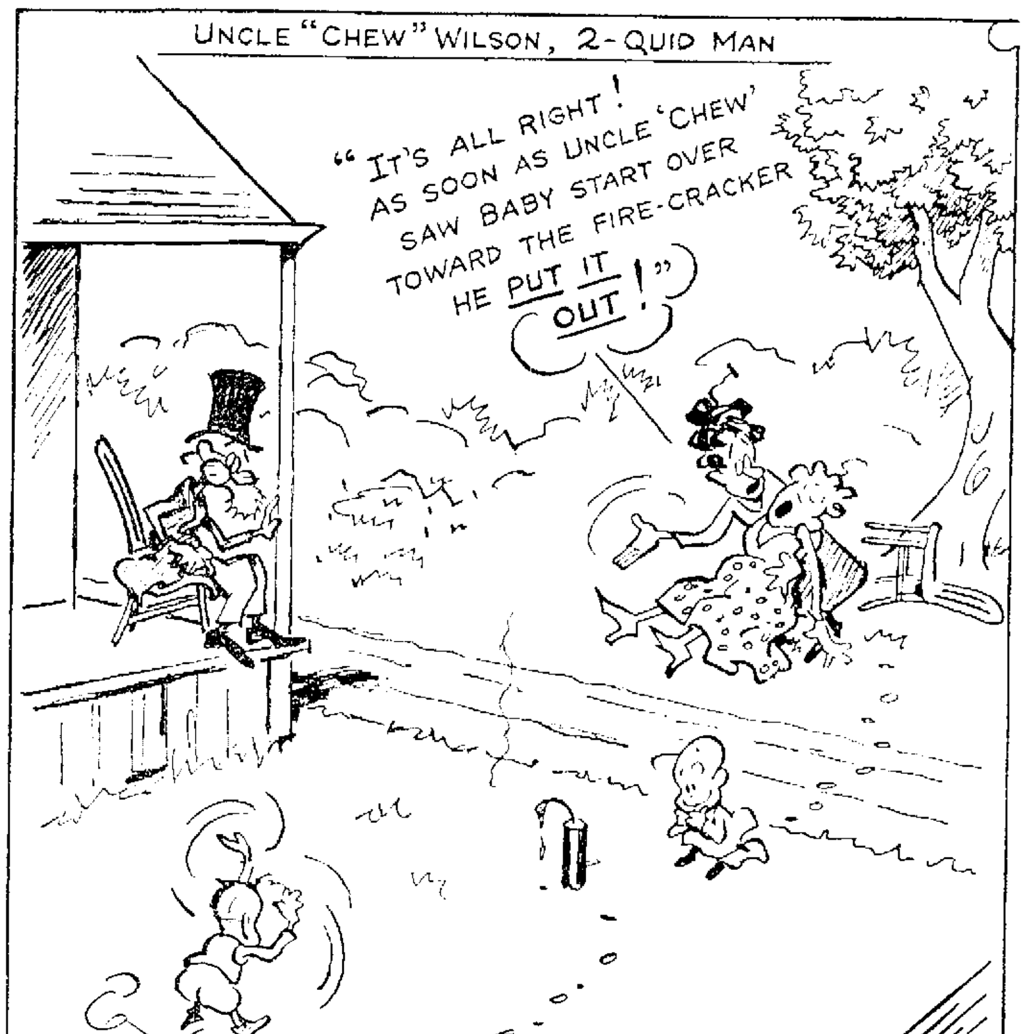

Fellowship and real delights
And unbroken sleep o'nights.

Bible Thought For Today

But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to show piety at home, and to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:33; sun rises tomorrow 4:35.

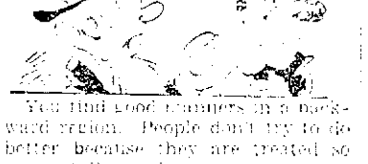

So often we hear political orators make nasty cracks and then when they see what a mess they are in they yell they were misquoted. Most people can still hear and tell what they hear. Being careful with the yap is something a lot of bores have to learn.

The fact that the corn fed girl is equipped with shock absorbers doesn't prevent her from getting a jolt when she sits down.

Wife (at the train)—Oh, dear! I knew I would forget something. I forgot my bathing suit.

Hubby—Don't worry dear. I'll put it in a letter and mail it to you right away."

An automobile that will float when caught in a flood seems to be a thing that is needed now. We have them that can nearly fly, but they sink in the flood just the same.

You find good manners in a backward region. People don't try to do better because they are treated so respectfully as they are.

Gunbusta—Why do you always insist on sitting by a window when you eat in a restaurant?

Dillpick—Because they always give the people by the windows the biggest helpings.

If a man held a 150-pound man on his knees for two hours he would be so lame that he couldn't walk for a week. But it is different when he holds a 150-pound girl on his knees.

A Pittsburgh gal says she was tricked when she signed a marriage license. She says she thought she was signing a liquor license. Bet she will be careful what she signs in the future. She evidently thinks she has something now worse than a liquor license.

S'WONDERFUL, BUT—

He took her in his arms.

"Oh, Darling," he murmured; "I love you so much. Say you'll be mine. I'm not rich like Percival Brown. I haven't a car or a fine house or well stocked cellar, but darling, I love you."

Two soft arms stole around his neck, and two ruby lips whispered in his ear:

"And I love you too, darling; but—where is this man Brown?"

The old-fashioned man who used to make a wry face and say "nasty stuff" when the children watched him drink his evening toddy, now has a son who knows what an awful liar father was.

No people is fit for freedom till ready to die for it, nor fit to keep it unless that readiness endures after freedom is won.

WARTIME EFFICIENCY

Ex-Doughboy: I tried to enlist 27 times but each time they told me I was weak and undernourished.

Friend: Then what happened?

Ex-Doughboy: The draft board put me in Class A and when I got to camp they registered me as a truck driver!

When Mother told Pap in a fit of anger that she has had many proposals and had refused many men before Dad popped the question, his mental reaction was that some fellows have all the luck, but he maintained a discreet silence.

Wonder what Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin think about our president taking a million dollar trip to make political speeches all over the country and then take a fleet of battleships, airplanes, special 15-car trains and start on a fishing trip around the southern part of our country. They are pikers compared to us. Do you know who pays for it?

TODAY'S STORYETTE

He was one of the guests at a musicale following the dinner. The host had been playing on the piano. As she began another selection he leaned over to a charming woman seated next to him and inquired:

"What do you think of her execution?"

The woman turned and replied sweetly, "I'm in favor of it."

The law doesn't hinder all business. It politely stands aside to let the kidnaper collect.

A widow who never had a day's schooling knows more than a single girl who is a graduate of Vassar.

The difference between a show girl and a chorus girl is that the show girl isn't supposed to show anything.

The farmer from the next village was boasting about the effectiveness of his new scarecrow.

"Since I put it up," he said, "no bird has ventured within half a mile of the field. You fellows can't beat that."

The "locals," however, were not to be outdone.

"I can beat it!" announced Farmer Roberts. "Last week I put up a scarecrow which frightened the birds so much that one of them brought back two potatoes it had stolen."

Now let's have some bright college boy or girl investigate the sex morals of the older generation.

STILL ANOTHER VERSION

"Mother," she asked, "may I go out
To swim in the cool green water?"
"There are only man-eating sharks about."
Said Ma, "so I guess it's safe, my daughter."

We read of a bimbo who had the seat of his pants shot off with a shotgun while stealing chickens. No doubt he will think about trying to collect damages from the shooter. They try to collect damages these days for things they are responsible for themselves. Of course the cases are taken on the 50-50 basis.

A female columnist says a hair brush is a poor way to discipline children. Wonder what she thinks of bringing the kids to time with a single-tree or pink-handle?

When a widow gets married again the honeymoon lasts until husband No. 2 begins to ask what she did with the insurance money.

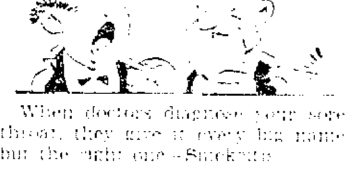

History Teacher—Mary, what event took place in 1732?

Mary (promptly)—George Washington was born.

Teacher—Correct. Henry, what happened in 1742?

Henry (after a pause)—George was 10 years old.

When they are first married she calls in every good doctor in the city if he happens to get sick. But a few years later she is always tempted to call in the horse doctor when he happens to get sick.

When doctors diagnose your sore throat, they give it every big name but the right one—Sneknuts.

Constable—Beg pardon, Miss, but there ain't no swimmin' allowed in this lake.

Elsie—Then why didn't you tell me before I undressed.

Constable—well, there don't happen to be any law against undressing.

Sycamore street, one way, from Mercer to Cochran alley, is plastered on both sides with no parking and one way signs, but try to get through that street a few times. Some park their own cars right in the street and rent out parking space in their place. What a place to make arrests and collect fines!

Flubb—Do you mean to tell me your wife wrote you that 16-page letter to tell you she needs $50?

Dubb—Yes; and that is just a scribble compared to the one I'll get if I don't send it.

Americanism: Killing 35,000 a year on our highways; wondering why people are no longer horrified by the slaughter in Spain and China.

First Boy—Did you tell your dad the fish were biting today?

Second Boy—Yes; and he said I had better stay home and pull all the weeds out of the garden so they wouldn't have any chance to bite me.

When you see professors in cap and gown, with the thermometer at 96, it is easy to pick the born freemen. They have nothing under the gown but pants.

There would be less trouble in the world if it cost $10,000 to get married and $10 to get a divorce.

Apparently all the fish have toothache on the days certain fishermen go fishing because the unlucky anglers always come home with a story of the big fellows that got away.

The Pullman Sleeping Car Company has been allowed to raise their fare five per cent. This will make more business for the trailers and cabins in this country.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"My poor fellow," the doctor said, "it is my duty to tell you that you are dangerously ill. Is there anybody you would like to see?"

"Yes," replied the patient, "another doctor."

Somehow or other the old-fashioned man who used to put dusty cobwebs on his cuts was never troubled by germs and microbes.

Good Taste

WHEN you give a dinner party or a luncheon, plan your menu to suit your equipment. If you have no oyster forks, serve fruit or soup. Should you lack dessert forks, serve a dessert that requires spoons. Eliminate any course that may show any weak point in your service.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: How should a burr artichoke be eaten?

READER.

Answer—With the fingers. Each leaf should be pulled off separately and held with the fingers while the edible end is dipped into the sauce. When all the leaves have been eaten, the heart should be eaten with a fork after the thorny part has been scraped off with a knife.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Senator Henrik Shipstead's plan for railroad rehabilitation has been referred to as a form of pump-priming—not by the senator but by commentators on his suggestion. Not that these commentators necessarily are adverse critics; some of them believe in pump-priming and speak of the Shipstead proposal as an excellent way of doing it. But they do call it pump-priming.

It does not seem a bit like pump-priming.

In pump priming there is not the least bit of nutriment. It is more like a stimulant. It has approximately the same relation to the Shipstead scheme that a "shot of licker" has to a series of doses of cod liver oil. A little "licker" may be all right in an emergency, but after all it is an artificiality, and sometimes it has a nasty reaction. Cod liver oil legitimately builds up a run-down system. Its purveyors says it does, anyway. I never took any. I'm more familiar with the other thing.

WHAT IS MATTER?

Well, if ever a system was run down our railroad system is. We all know that. The roads themselves admit and perhaps exaggerate it.

Their distress is importantly responsible for our recent economic tie-up.

What, then, is the matter with the roads?

Principally, their equipment is hopelessly out of date. If improved, the roads' operating costs could be cut. Perhaps they could reduce rates, thus getting more business—and maintain wages.

But they cannot make the required improvements; they have not the money.

WHY NOT USE JUNK?

In short:

The roads have a lot of obsolete rolling stock on hand that they cannot operate advantageously and yet cannot replace—being too poverty-stricken.

Still, this ancient stuff has a market value as junk. Illustratively, there is in it a huge quantity of steel—dandy raw material for countries now engaged in armament construction. Fancy prices are being paid for such scrap in Europe and the Orient.

Senator Shipstead's theme is:

"Why not utilize our railroads' otherwise useless supply of it?"

JUNK VALUE

Parenthetically:

I do not intend to imply that the Minnesota Farmer-Laborite would condone armament building.

He points out only that a used-up freight car has about $190 worth of value left in it, and the number of such freight cars is legion. The hint that these derelict cars are militarily available is my own, not the senator's.

TRADE TO GOVERNMENT?

Getting back to the senatorial plan:

Worn-out automobiles can be traded in for new ones on a percentage basis.

Why not allow railroads to trade in "worn-out rolling stock." Trade it in to whom? Why, to the government. The government can get its investment out of those used-up cars—by building them into warships if necessary.

SHIPSTEAD'S PROGRAM

From the trade-in of their used-up equipment the roads will have established a modicum of credit to enable them to re-equip.

For the new rolling stock the government will have to put up the money, of course. But it will have the old junk, as value-in-hand in the meantime. And also it will re-

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THOSE BATHING "SUITS"

The executive committee of the board of directors of a great manufacturing company were in session and the manager of sales was very insistant.

"We'll have to make another cut."

"Can't we wait until next year?"

"We can't wait another week. The other manufacturers are already making drastic reductions."

"Well, I don't see where we can make any more cuts."

"There must be some place."

"You'll have to find it. I've gone over the whole business and it's nothing but a skeleton affair already. I tell you, if we make another cut everything will drop, that's all."

"Let it drop. That isn't our problem. We've got to keep on cutting and slashing every place we can until we're putting out absolutely the skimpiest girl's bathing suit on the market."

The Great Game Of Politics

Overplaying Their Hands

WASHINGTON, July 2.

EVERY now and then the bright young men who constitute Mr. Roosevelt's Kitchen Cabinet become carried away with a sense of their own importance and overplay their hand. Then they have to backtrack as gracefully as they can. Sometimes that is not so graceful.

THERE have been several instances. One was the enthusiastic promotion of Mr. Robert Jackson as the President's choice for the 1938 [illegible]. That Mr. Jackson was to be Governor of New York and then President. That was the happy idea, but it turned out so absurdly that those unwise enough to have taken it seriously suffered considerable discomfiture before Mr. Jackson resumed his normal size. Then there was the Iowa fight against Senator Gillette, managed by Mr. Tommy Corcoran, reported author of the President's "Fireside Chats." This positive political effort resulted in credit for the Administration, but the bright young men were red, and in complaining that if Mr. Roosevelt had gone in personally as they had urged, things would have been different.

ANOTHER example of overplaying seems afforded by the pending anti-monopoly investigation, authorized by Congress but really inspired by the inner White House circle, which has—or thinks it will have—control. Some weeks before the resolution authorizing the investigation went through several of these brilliant young men who have begun to fancy themselves as streamlined political strategists, far superior to the Farley type conceived the idea that if they could direct this investigation throughout the summer it could be turned into a gorgeous show which, by "exposing" various economic royalists in a lurid light, would greatly redound to the political advantage of New Deal candidates this fall.

IT WAS, they reasoned, exactly what was needed. With [illegible] after they [illegible] their plans to several admiring and friendly journalists, Mr. J. P. Morgan was to be had down and given a "real grilling," the heads of the great insurance companies would be put on the stand made to divulge their large, fat salaries and the number of relatives they have on the payroll. Various bank presidents and financiers were marked for special attention. There was to be a fine summer smearing of the rich which, directed by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, pictured as a ruthless and bull-dozing man capable of tearing an economic royalist to pieces with his teeth, would provide New Dealers with a fine campaign issue and rekindle the sort of feeling that made the 1934 and 1936 elections such overwhelming triumphs.

IN OTHER words, a "devil hunt" was to be instituted. The basic purpose of the anti-monopolists, as conceived by Senators O'Mahoney and Borah, was to be lost in the calculated demagoguery of a class appeal. That this idea was cherished there is no doubt. The journalistic spokesmen to whom it was confided gave it wide publicity in various forms and its sponsors were full of joy at their success in getting the resolution through in such shape as to put the investigation in their hands. Some of them were quite open about the political effect they intended to make. However, they have recently started to backtrack on the "devil-hunt" program and at least publicly, are vehemently disavowing any such intention.

TWO THINGS appear responsible for the change. One is that the publication of the political aims of these streamline strategists apparently took the edge off. It warned not only the intended victims of what was coming but also the supposedly gullible public. It robbed the performance of any element of dramatic surprise and gave in advance the "exposures" an artificial staged aspect. The other thing was the reaction among the Congressional members of the investigating committee. Most of these, particularly the Senators, read the advance publicity with complete disapproval. Hints that they do not propose to permit the investigation to be conducted along demagogic lines emanated from them.

THE NET result is that the streamline strategists at the moment are busy refuting their own inspired publicity. Solemnly and quite mendaciously they assert that no thought of politics ever entered their minds in this connection. Business need have no fear. No "devil hunt" is planned. Mr. Morgan will not be pestered. The insurance heads are not to be "ridden." The investigation will be undemagogic and fair. All that is desired is cooperation of the witnesses to get the facts. Nothing else was ever thought of. Bosh! All of it is as false as it is belated. The strategists have backed away from their original idea on the surface because the reaction was unfavorable, but they haven't given it up.

tain title to the new cars until the roads have paid for them on the installment plan, just as the auto dealers retain titles to their cars until they are fully paid for.

That is the Shipstead program.

GOVERNMENTALIZATION?

It sounds to me like good business.

My guess would be that if adopted, the program would lead ultimately to governmentalization of transportation.

I would not consider that an unmitigated curse, either.

I have seen other countries where these natural monopolies are governmentally run and they are at least as well conducted as they are here, where we only tinker with them.

Tuberculosis Deaths Decline

Number Drops Materially In Last Thirty Years In Pennsylvania

CASE FINDING PROGRAM AIDS

HARRISBURG, July 2—In 1906, tuberculosis caused the death of 10,894 persons in Pennsylvania State Health Department statistics reveal. In 1937 the number had dropped to 4,880.

Various conditions may have accounted for this marked reduction but of one thing health department officials are convinced: the Juvenile Tuberculosis Case Finding Program has been an important factor in driving the death rate downward in recent years.

Briefly this program, explains Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, secretary of health, aims at testing children for tuberculosis at the most susceptible ages, 14 to 16 years, and if they are found to be infected, subject them to treatment while the disease is still in its incipient stage.

To this end children of the ninth grades of the high schools are given tuberculosis tests, with their parents' consent, and where found to show evidence of the presence of the disease, are urged to undergo prescribed treatment.

Reports reveal that out of 37,485 ninth grade children examined, 5,240 or 11.3 per cent showed a positive reaction to the tests—had symptoms of tuberculosis. This means 5,240 children, if treated promptly, will be unlikely to swell the ranks of tuberculosis sanatoria population or add at a later day to the death rate of the disease. It means 5,240 children saved and assured in most cases of healthy, normal lives as they progress toward maturity.

White Russian Refugees Now Seek New Haven

(International News Service)

PARIS, July 2.—Twenty years after the revolution White Russia refugees are looking for another haven.

In 1917 and for several years afterward they flocked to Paris and found various means of livelihood, most as taxicab drivers. Most of them, having lost their nationality, carry the so-called "Nansen passport" issued by the League of Nations in 1920, but the authority of which, especially for countries which have broken with the league, has declined.

Now many of them have been ordered to leave France within a short time. And they don't know which way to turn. There is not even any assurance that Italy and Germany, where many of the deportees would like to live, will receive them. The only countries where they have any certainty of being allowed to settle are Belgium and Luxembourg.

GIRL SCOUTS

CAMPING TRIP ENJOYED

A delightful three-day camping trip was recently enjoyed by the members of the Senior troop of the Girl Scouts, when they spent a short time at Rose Point. Hiking in the cool woods, swimming in the Slippery Rock creek and excursions to nearby points of interest made the time pass so quickly that a longer period was earnestly wished for by all. The girls visited McConnells Mills, where they viewed—some for the first time—the splendor of the falls and the beauty of the woods.

The cooking was done entirely on an outside fireplace and the resulting menus left nothing to be desired. Campfires were planned with the pleasure of the girls in mind and resulted in pure enjoyment by everyone.

The trip was conducted under the able supervision of Mrs. W. H. Hanger and Miss Elizabeth Reis. Miss Helen Hurst, a counselor of the troop, spent two nights at the camp. An honored guest was Miss Rosena McGurk, who has a cottage nearby.

Reluctantly the site of the camp was left, and a sincere hope was expressed that another such event would soon follow.

Bids for the carpet and linoleum for the law library and the judges' office were opened Friday by the county commissioners and the county controller but no awards will be made until Wednesday.

An odd thing occurs every morning about 10:45 in the office of the register and recorder. The light over Orville Potter's desk goes out as does the light in the end of the vault room nearest the corridor. It has been suggested that one of the electric clocks short circuits at this time every day, causing the lights to go out. Either that or it is spooks.

Register and Recorder Potter is still keeping in touch with his friends on court house hill by post card. Several cards arrived from San Francisco on Friday, all of them being views of the exposition buildings which will be in use in 1939.

Two of the bar association members will be missing for a couple of weeks. Attorneys Charles A. Wallace and Frank O. Girls Enjoying East Brook Camp

Party Celebrates Birthday Of Joanne Withers On Friday Evening

Rain yesterday did not in the least dampen the spirits of the fifty little girls on vacation at Camp East Brook. The ingenious counselors are not the type to let inclement weather interfere with the activity and happiness of the campers, and the youngsters were kept busy with their interest groups and crafts, and games in the dining-room of the camp. The nature study group, which usually takes short observation walks during their study periods, enjoyed a fascinating explanation about the earth, sun and moon, illustrated with three balls. The interest of the youthful campers in such deep questions as gravity and distance would be amazing to the casual onlooker.

Last night a party celebrating the birthday anniversary of Joanne Withers was a feature of the evening and party games claimed the enthusiastic attention of the girls. Birthday cake was an extra treat for the occasion.

Miss Marguerite White, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., assures parents that plans for the Fourth of July celebration at camp do not include fireworks. The city ordinance forbidding fireworks will be observed, and in their place, a full day of special events has been planned.

The local mailmen have had an extra load to carry since the opening of camp, since the campers are urged to write letters and cards home during their rest hour. Already more than one hundred postcards have been sold at the camp store.

Funeral Services For McCormick This Afternoon

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 2.—Funeral services were to be held late today for 21-year-old Medill McCormick, who lost his life with a friend during an attempt to scale towering Sandia Peak, some 20 miles from here.

The body of the young scion of a noted publishing family was found Thursday by a party of Indians on the north side of the peak, on an almost hidden ledge, 150 feet from the top. The ledge was approximately five miles from the spot, on the opposite side of the mountain, where the body of McCormick's companion, Richard Whitmer, 20, was found a week ago Friday.

For eight days the south side of the peak had been combed for McCormick, and his body was discovered by chance by the Indians at a time when the searchers were almost ready to give up their task as hopeless.

Boxing Show Tuesday Night

Rain Causes Postponement Of Amateur Boxing Show Several Days

ALL BOXERS AGREE TO BATTLE TUESDAY

Due to a steady rain throughout Friday, it was necessary for officials of the Jefferson A. C. to postpone their eight bout amateur boxing show until Tuesday night.

According to Matchmaker Thomas Leach all of the fighters originally carded are here last night and re-signed agreements whereby each of them will appear at 8:30 p. m. on Tuesday night.

Despite the rainfall several hundred persons visited the Grove St. playground. The gravel floor was in condition, but the unprotected seats were wet and it was deemed best to keep the place dark.

The card was one of the punchiest yet arranged here and due to the scheduled appearance of Mickie Rubin, Mickie Medwick, Tony Adamo and other slamfest artists, it attracted more than ordinary interest.

Pasteboards disposed of for last night will be good for Tuesday and the officials who were named to take charge of the show will be in their seats when the bell rings on Tuesday night.

The bouts which will be staged are as follows:

Harold Blank of Youngstown vs. Mike Kaluzer of Follansbee, W. Va. 145.

Eddie Oleski of Follansbee, W. Va. vs. Johnny Morinelli, Youngstown 112.

Joe Gainer, Bethany College, vs. Steve Morgan, Youngstown, 160.

Mickie Medwick, New Castle, vs. Jake Smith, Follansbee, heavyweights.

Frankie Karik, Youngstown, vs. Benny Bartle, Ellwood City, 155.

Tony Adamo, New Castle, vs. Jimmy Stewart, Youngstown, 155.

Mickie Rubin, New Castle vs. Shelton Bell, Youngstown, light heavyweights.

Nick Retardo, of Ellwood City vs. Earl Donaldson, Youngstown, 135 pounds.

Greyhound To Try And Break His Own Mark

Will Race At Goshen, N. Y., In Two Weeks, Will Start At Cleveland

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2.—Two weeks from today the world's greatest horse will attempt to lower his own world record for a mile.

No; I am not referring to War Admiral, Seabiscuit or any other pampered pet of the running turf. But I am referring on the authority of Major Algernon Dangerfield and a host of other turf experts—to Greyhound, king of the trotters.

The great grey gelding will launch his attack against the clock over the half-mile circuit kown as Historic track, at Goshen, N. Y. This is the same track over which he trotted the mile in 1:59 3-4 just a year ago.

Is Six Years Old.

Both his driver, Sep Palin of Indianapolis, and his millionaire owner, E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., who bought him for $900 as a yearling, believe that the grey ghost can lower those figures.

They also believe that he can improve on his other world mark—his 1:56 for eight furlongs made over a mile track.

Greyhound makes his first start of the year Monday in one of the new all-age stakes at Cleveland. There used to be little or no competition for a trotter or pacer after his three-year old season. Last year, for instance, Greyhound, then a five year old, had no races. But five new all-age stakes have been added to give the older horses a break this year.

Now, in his six year old year, Greyhound is said to be bigger, faster and greyer than ever.

Yankees Decrease Lead Of Indians

Yanks Shut-Out Senators 8 To 0, With Dickey Hitting Two Homers

PHILLIES UPSET BOSTON TWICE

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2.—Ramblings from the New York Yankees' dug-out today served fair warning on the Cleveland Indians that the path to the American League pennant will be strewn with hardship and turmoil from this point onward.

For the Yankees feel that for the first time this year they have hit their stride and the two and a half game lead of the Tribe looms not as ominous as it might have a few weeks ago.

Yanks Win Again

Bill Dickey, the Yank's powerful catcher, drove in seven runs with his 13th and 14th home runs as Chandler shut out the Washington Senators, 8-0. Frank Crosetti joined the ever-growing list of homer hitters with a circuit clout off Elon Hogsett in the sixth, to aid in the Yankee's sixth straight win.

In the only other American League contest Jimmy Foxx hammered out homer No. 23 and Lefty Grove won his 12th victory as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 12 to 7. Earl Brucker hit a homer for the A's losing cause.

Bob Seeds, latest acquisition of the Terrymen, hit a home run with two on base to give the New York Giants a 3 to 1 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The win was the Giant's seventh straight over their rivals across the bridge.

Phillies Win Two

The Phillies took both ends of a double header from the Boston Bees, 4 to 1 and 5 to 0. Claude Passeau held the Bees to five hits, including Hal Mueller's home run in the first game, while Wayne LaMaster shut out the Stengelmen with five hits and drove in three himself with a pair of singles, in the nightcap.

In a night game in Cincinnati, the Chicago Cubs hit their early season stride and handed the Reds an 11 to 4 defeat. A crowd of 19,731 booed the Reds throughout the game.

The Indians and White Sox were rained out in Chicago as were the Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

Elders To Play Brent On Sunday

The newly organized Elders A. C. will play the fast Brent team at Elders Field, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, it was announced by "Hoddy" Smith, business manager of the Elders today.

This game will be particular interest to the fans due to the fact that last Thursday the Elders went to Brent and lost a tough one 1 to 0 although Jack Butler gave the Brentians but one hit and walked one man. "Ace" Lamm will go to the knoll for the Elders in the game here Sunday.

RADIATORS CARD TWO FAST TEAMS

The National Radiators will play two fast teams over the Fourth of July holiday, meeting the fast Mayfield team of Youngstown at Youngstown on Sunday at the Market street play-ground field.

Monday the Fourth, the Rads will play the fast New Kensington Wayne Lumbers team at the Radiator field. The first game at 1:30 o'clock. This team is leading the A-K league at New Kensington and have been undefeated to date.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Since Monday is the Fourth, it might be a good idea to call your wandering attention to the fact that it is more easy to be careful than it is to overcome the results of an accident ... both motorists and children should be extra careful tomorrow and Monday ... especially the children who are fortunate enough to have fireworks ... don't take a little chance ... your eyes, fingers and what have you are more important than anything else in the world ... let's make this a safe Fourth.

Made a little tour of Cascade Park ... have been telling you folks about the wonderful views and beautiful flowers ... you really should make this trip over the coming week-end ... the power boat that is to be used on the lake will be put into service Sunday afternoon for the first time ... it is a very trim little craft ... all metal and powered by a Chevrolet motor ... in place of the rear wheels we find paddle wheels ... really an idea ... so take time and see your park this week.

Had the pleasure of learning what a real New Yorker thinks of New Castle ... "You have a very nice town with plenty of sociable people, but to tell you the truth I would much rather drive down Broadway than down your main street. I am frightened to death of your traffic." ... we hear more and more people say the same thing ... our pedestrians think only of themselves; some times we wonder if they do think ... they walk against the traffic lights ... step out into traffic from between cars ... cross the street in the middle of a block ... and the bicycle riders don't give a hoot for anyone ... this little suggestion is being carried out in other towns, maybe it could be tried here ... A policeman should be stationed on every downtown intersection ... when a person crosses the street against the light he would call them back ... in some cities these violators are fined and it doesn't take long for the people to learn ... we are no different from other people ... We wish you would think this idea over, Tommy Jones ... you know better than we do if it would work or not.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It was just fifty-seven years ago this second of July that two of the most important Americans of the day were walking side by side in the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad station in the city of Washington. They were big men, broad-shouldered and full-bearded, after the custom of the times. One was the President of the United States, James A. Garfield. The other was his Secretary of State, James G. Blaine.

They had arrived at the depot at 9:25 o'clock in the morning, on the way to Williams College, the President's Alma Mater. The Secretary of State had accompanied the President in the carriage from the White House as there were important matters to discuss.

Arm in arm, they walked the station platform, talking together earnestly. They were just passing a man of medium build who held a sheaf of paper in his right hand. Suddenly he dropped the paper which had concealed a pistol. Calmly he took aim and fired two shots. One bullet struck President Garfield in the arm, just below the shoulder. The other went into his back.

Charles J. Guiteau, who shot down the President of the United States, looked a moment on the fallen man writhing in pain, turned and walked without haste toward an exit of the depot. The exit was blocked by excited persons who had heard the pistol reports. Some had had a glimpse of the tragedy. Guiteau started to run but a policeman downed him with a flying tackle. With not one sign of emotion on his face, Guiteau handed his pistol to an officer, remarking "I did it and want to be arrested."

It took quick work to save him from being hanged then and there by a crowd in a lynching mood. A mob was formed, but the police acted swiftly and courageously and rushed their prisoner to the heavily guarded District of Columbia jail where he was placed under heavy guard.

President Garfield died on the 9th of September. Guiteau was indicted for murder and convicted after a sensational trial in which the assassin plainly revealed his lunacy. He argued with his own counsel, screamed at the judge, went on his knees to the jury. But the court held that, as a rule of law, a person who insane, shall be punished for a wrongful act he commits with knowledge of its wrongfulness. He may be insane on all other points, but if sane in reference to the instant act, punishment shall follow.

Guiteau was a disappointed office seeker, resentful and bitter in his deranged mind. He was 42, son of a banker in Freeport, Illinois. His ambition was to be Minister to Austria. His reputation as an eccentric lawyer and religious fanatic was known, and his application for the post was summarily rejected. After that he practiced pistol shooting every day and haunted the vicinity of the White House. His chance came on that July day when the President was setting out for his college commencement in Williamstown.

Garfield was then 48 in the very prime of life, famous as an able general in the Union Army in the Civil War, and as a United States Senator from Ohio. He was a striking-looking personage, tall, broad-shouldered and yellow-haired.

Three presidents have fallen victims to assassins, not one of whom could have been quite sane. Abraham Lincoln, James A. Garfield and William McKinley were the three fatally wounded. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a narrow escape at Miami, Fla., when a bullet aimed at him, struck and mortally wounded Mayor Cermak of Chicago.

And in 1912, while running as the Bull Moose candidate for President, Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the left breast by a crazy man named John Shrank, and almost certainly would have been killed had not a metal case deflected the bullet. No one save Secret Service men, one of whose principal duties is the protection of the Chief Executive, knows how tense, alert and continuous is the vigilance maintained night and day.

No Liquor Floor Tax Refund Seen

About One-Third Of Sum Assessed Has Already Been Paid

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2.—About one-third of the $20,000,000 the state had hoped to obtain from the liquor floor tax passed in 1933 has already been collected, despite the supreme court's decision holding the act invalid, it was revealed today.

Furthermore, it was stated there is little danger that the state will have to refund this amount, except perhaps in minor instances, because of the high court's adverse decision. It was explained that large companies making the payment agreed then not to demand refunds in the event the act was later invalidated.

A total of $7,017,187 has been paid into the state treasury by liquor companies, the revenue department revealed. An inventory taken in December, 1933, showed taxable gallons on warehouse floors of approximately 6,000,000 gallons, which at $2 a gallon tax would have come to $12,000,000, the revenue department added.

Refunds, it was said, if allowed, would have to be authorized by legislative appropriation. Before that they would have to be sanctioned by the state board of finance and revenue.

Local Amateur Given Honors

Arch Foster Operates Official Amateur Broadcast Station Here For League

Arch Foster, master of Amateur Radio Station W8RBI has been given appointment of Official Broadcast Station Representative, for this district, for the American Radio Relay League.

Foster, who owns and operates a powerful short wave station from his home, on R. D. 2, was given this appointment recently due to his knowledge of the radio work and because of the fine equipment in his outfit.

Three times a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, at 6:30 o'clock, Foster goes on the air with official broadcasts, carrying messages of interest to the various amateurs about the country.

In times of emergency, Foster's station would be used as an emergency communication station.

At the present time, W8RBI is operating on 400 watts of power, but it is expected that this amount will be increased some in the near future.

Start Of Camp Season Nearing

Season At Scout Camp John M. Phillips Gets Underway Saturday, July 9

It won't be long now!

Yes, the season at Scout Camp John M. Phillips will get underway on Saturday, July 9. And, according to advance notices and personal observations, the physical facilities are in better shape than they have been for more than decade.

The main building, which includes the screened dining hall, has been repaired and painted. The cook stove has been thoroughly renovated, and, in place of the squat chimney, there now rises a towering stack.

Mr. Henry, new camp caretaker, has developed a truly fine lawn extending a considerable distance about the main building. This enhances the appearance of the evergreen planting made a couple of years ago.

If all the improvement to both buildings and grounds were enumerated, it would take up too much space. However, when scouters and scouts held their "field day at camp a few weeks ago, numerous needed repairs and improvements were made.

The swimming hole at the "bend" looks as enticing as it did at any time last year. The clear water reflecting the tall hemlocks which line the bank, looks positively irresistible.

One could go on in this vein endlessly, but instead of wasting words we'll summarize by stating that everything's all set for a big season. Incidentally, the season is only four weeks in length, so that it behooves the scout to sign on the dotted line as soon as possible. An encouraging number has already registered for the full season.

July 2.

Dear Brother Lion:

On Tuesday, Lion Boyd will give his farewell address, to be followed by the installation of Lion Earl Henderson and the other officers for the current year. Past District Governor Marvin will be in charge.

Lion Earl will announce his committees. We trust every Lion will be present to witness the ceremony.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS I. ELLIOTT, Secretary.

PITTSBURGH MAN'S LETTERS WIN WIFE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Nine years ago David Stadler, governor of a Hungarian province, made a promise and kept it. As a result the former Miss Elizabeth Glasdick today was his bride after nine years courtship by mail. The pair met while the former Pittsburgh school teacher was on a tour of Europe. He promised her at that time that "through my letters I will conquer all other men who want to marry you." That was in 1929. For nine years he sent a steady stream of missives to the girl.

BULL SNAKE CAUSES NOTHING BUT TROUBLE

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., July 2.—A six-foot Texas bull snake secured on a local resident to rid his home of rats caused a great deal of trouble here recently.

The snake, seeking bigger and better rodents, escaped from his basement home and started down a nearby street. Later the reptile was captured by police who decided it would be safer in official hands and then, too, it could rid the station-house of rats.

The snake was living in his new quarters only one day when it was reported that station's three Negro janitors refused to come to work.

The "cops" solved their problem by killing the snake.
